The first part of the theory is devoted to the study of the properties of the various types of functions which are defined in the preceding chapter. It is shown that the functions of the first kind are characterized by the property that they are continuous and have a finite number of discontinuities. The functions of the second kind are characterized by the property that they are continuous and have an infinite number of discontinuities.
 The functions of the third kind are characterized by the
 number of discontinuities, but the discontinuities are of the second kind. The functions of the fourth kind are characterized by the property that they are continuous and have an infinite number of discontinuities, but the discontinuities are of the first kind.

The first of these is the fact that the government has been successful in its efforts to reduce the deficit. This is a significant achievement, especially in light of the fact that the deficit has been increasing for several years. The government has managed to do this by cutting spending and increasing revenue. This is a commendable effort, and it is to be hoped that the government will continue to work hard to reduce the deficit in the future.
