Projekt Ulepszenia Stadionu

Ruchome schody są główną cechą proponowanych ulepszeń stadionu miejskiego, których projekt będzie przedłożony clevelandzkiej Radzie miejskiej w przyszłym roku. $41,000 projekt, dający głównie do wygody widzów, jest obecnie przygotowywany przez firmę Noble W. Herzberg and Associates.

Projekt ten przewiduje również 1,100 dodatkowych miejsc siedzących (box seats) na poziomie boiska do grania, ulepszenie udogodnień licencyjowanych, wybrukowanie ziemi na zewnątrz stadionu, odnowienie pokoi wypoczynkowych, oraz poważniejsze naprawy i pomalowanie stadionu.

Problem Parkowania

Problem parkowania samochodów przy clevelandzkim Międzynarodowym Lotnisku Hopkins osiągnął w ubiegłą środę najkrzytyczniejszy punkt w 41-letniej historii tego lotniska. Rozgniewani podróżujący, nie mogąc znaleźć miejsca na zaparkowanie, pozostawili swoje auta na trawnikach w miejscach zakazanych na parkowanie i nawet na środku ulic.

Sytuacja ta staje się stopniowo gorszą w miarę zbliżania się świąt Bożego Narodzenia. Morgan Lauer, zarządca lotniska, który w ubiegłą środę obserwował podróżujących, potrząsnął głową i powiedział, że ten problem przesładuje go przez cały najruchliwszy sezon.

Włóczka Oskarżony o Zamordowanie Dra Spika

Przy końcu ubiegłego tygodnia w Columbus, Ohio, kędzierzawy włóczka William R. Minor, lat 23, który podał, że mieszkał w Paintsville, Ky., został oskarżony o zamordowanie dra Roberta W. Spika, lat 45, znanego w całym kraju teologa i przywódcę praw cywilnych.

Policja powiedziała, że Minor został aresztowany w ubiegłą środę po zatrzymaniu samochodu policyjnego i wmieszaniu siebie w serię włamań do kościołów. — Oskarżenie Minor było kulminacyjnym punktem długiego i intensywnego śledztwa, które nie wniosło żadnego klucza do ujęcia mordercy profesora Uniwersytetu Chicagoskiego.

Ward Oferuje Plan Podwyżki

Stanowy dyrektor personalny Wayne Ward otworzył drogę do $40 miesięcznej podwyżki płacy dla zatrudnionych przez stan pielegniarek, ale nie jest pewnym, czy taki krok doprowadzi do wstrzymania rezygnacji 21 pielegniarek w Ohiockim Szpitalu Gruźliczym, która zdaniem urzędników stanowego dep. zdrowia, zmusiłaby ich do zamknięcia szpitala.

Ward zaproponował przeklasyfikowanie niektórych pielegniarek stanowych na prace lepiej płatne. To mogłoby być osiągnięte przez zmianę specyfikacji prac. Alternatywnym rozwiązaniem byłoby nadwyżczajna podwyżka udzielona przez gub. Jamesa A. Rhodes, lub regularna zmiana płacy wprowadzona przez dep. personalny.

CTS Zakupi 60 Autobusów

E. C. Krueger, generalny zarządca CTS, powiedział, że Rada Transportowa będzie wcześniej w styczniu poproszona o aprobatę zakupu 40 autobusów z opcją zakupu 20 dalszych. Rada wskazała nierównomiernie, że aprobuję powyższy plan.

Goalie Banach, named as alternate, played well and pulled off some good saves. It was only that word leaked out about his "bad knee" that dampened the officials' enthusiasm.

Those named were: Ernest Tudscherer of the Kickers, Rudi Getzinger of Hansa, Jimmy Benedek of Green-Whites, and Ned Kralj and Janus Schlenker of Schwaben. A sixth member of the Chicago contingent, Orest Banach of the Lions, was named alternate goalie.

Their selection made Chicago the current amateur soccer capital of the nation. With Philadelphia placing three players on the U.S. team, and San Francisco only two, Chicago looms as the leading contributor of soccer talent.

On Saturday, the Eastern hopefuls battled valiantly to keep pace with the better coordinated Western team grudgingly yielded a 3-2 result.

At least four of the six Chicagoans participating came through with flying colors. Ernie Tudscherer and Rudi Getzingers performances asserted themselves early and even before the game was halfway over they already won acclaim of the selectors.

The game, which is played at midnight without benefit of artificial light, features the Goldpanners playing Oregon State.

Outlook For 1967

"Uncertainty about economic policy and the economic outlook may dampen the full potential of new car sales in 1967 and the balance of 1966," said Henry Ford II. However, he thinks that the long-range outlook for car sales is excellent and that saturation of the car market is a long way off in this country and even further off abroad.

Mr. Ford said that if new-car sales continue at a rate of about 8.5 million as they have since late October, total sales for 1966 will be "just below 9 million — down from last year's record 9.3 million, but well ahead of all other years."

"In our judgement, the failure to reach that potential is the result of the prevailing mood of uncertainty about economic policy and the economic outlook. People are worried about a tax increase, the possibility of a reduced work week, and further increases in living costs, and they are reluctant to make major purchases until the outlook becomes clearer."

"Our best guess right now," he reported, "is that new car sales in 1967 will continue to run a bit below their potential level, for a total of about 8.5 million next year. Sales of 8.5 million would be about 250,000 below our estimate of the normal trend level for 1967." Mr. Ford emphasized that despite the current market setback, he is convinced that the industry can look forward to strong growth for a long time to come. He projected U.S. car sales to increase to normal levels of about 10 million car sales a year by 1970 and 11 1/2 million by 1975.

Car sales outside the United States will increase even faster, Mr. Ford said. He foresees unit growth at a compound rate of 6% a year for the next five years, tapering to about 4.5% in the five years thereafter.

"In short," he asserted, "we foresee continued opportunities for the automobile industry to grow, both overseas and in the U.S. We have no illusions that growth will be achieved easily. Next year, in particular, will present a number of difficult challenges. But we know what our problems are and there need be no uncertainty about our determination to overcome them." (R.M.)

US Army's Special Forces 'Green Berets' Broadcast Thursday

A WGN Radio NeWns Special will go behind the scenes Thursday, December 15 at 7:30 P.M. for an in depth look at a living legend, the U. S. Army's Special Forces "Green Berets!"

Listeners will hear the actual sounds of men in training, learn their personal fears, and be able to feel first-hand the tremendous "esprit de corps" carried by this crack military team.

WGN's portable microphone, with reporter Dave Andre, was carried aloft by the famed work-horse of the Air Force, a "Flying Boxcar," the C-119. High over a Chicagoland jump zone preparations leading to an actual parachute maneuver were recorded. This exciting segment culminates when the recorder becomes airborne with a master parachutist, who describes the long descent to the field below.

Featured throughout the "Green Berets" are men from Chicago's own 12th Special Forces reserve training group. Captain Roger Donlon, who earned the Congressional Medal of Honor in Viet Nam, will be heard from as well as famed Special Forces song writer, Staff Sergeant Barry Sadler.

WGN's Dave Andre, a veteran of many years of military reserve duty, narrates the program, and served as writer-producer. Executive producer of the "Green Berets" was Gene Filip, director of WGN Radio News.

Random Note
Bleak Month? It's Not So!
It wasn't an outdoor poet who coined the phrase "bleak December." It was someone who probably slept late, had sluggish circulation and was afraid of catching cold. December was bleak because it wasn't June, loud with bees and bright with blossoms.

True, December can be raw and cold and its days sometimes are dark, but it is neither bleak nor colorless. Go outdoors soon after sunset, which now comes late, and even on a lowering day you probably will find a frosty scene of dazzling beauty.

If the day is clear it can be a world transformed by frost or snow, newly created, fragile as spun glass, ephemeral as the passing hour.

GO TO THE WOODLAND and see how the green of pine and hemlock is twice as bright against leafless elm and ash and maple.

Underfoot are those humble ancient, running pine and ground cedar, greener than summer grass; and the creeping partridgeberry is gay not only with evergreen leaves but with dew-drop-size rubies.

Sumac has fat clusters of blood-stone-fruit. Black alder's stems are decked with garnets.

Bittersweet is festive with bangles of coral and carnelian. The barberry bushes are loaded with topaz and rubies.

THE MEADOW GRASS is bronze and antique gold. Empty milkweed pods are lined with mother-of-pearl. Fraying thistleheads are spun silver. The gray beech tree's crisp leaves are beaten gold.

Taken on its own terms, no December day is really bleak. December wasn't meant to be June.

Medics Advice: Make Christmas Tree Safe

A Christmas tree is one of the most flammable objects known. In fact, an average size tree — once ignited — takes less than two minutes to burn, warns Illinois Medical Society.

Because it poses such a great fire hazard, the following rules have been devised by fire safety engineers to make your Christmas tree as safe as possible:

1. BEFORE PURCHASING a tree, bounce the stump hard on the ground. If the needles shower, don't buy it — it's too dry.
2. Keep the tree outside, standing in a bucket of water or in the snow, until a few days before Christmas.
3. When you're ready to bring it indoors, saw off at least one inch of the trunk to help the tree absorb more water.
4. Keep the tree in water at all times. The water level should be above the stump.
5. Place it in the coldest part of your house. If necessary, shut off a radiator or other type of heat source near the tree.
6. Be sure the tree is located some distance from an electrical outlet to avoid possible sparks from igniting the tree when plugging and unplugging the light cords.
7. Before you put the lights on, make sure they bear the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label to assure they've been tested for fire and shock hazards.
8. Check old light cords for frayed wires, loose connections

Beatification
Cause Examined

Rome (IC) — The Congregation of Rites examined (Nov. 15) the cause introduced for the beatification of Archbishop Jerzy Matulewicz.

Born in 1871, he spent a difficult childhood as an orphan before entering the religious seminary at Kielce at the age of 20. After the seminary had been closed down by the Russian authorities he continued his theological studies in the Catholic Academy at St. Petersburg (now Leningrad). Ordained in 189, he went on to study at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland, and in 1902 was awarded a doctorate in Theology. Returning to Warsaw he held teaching posts and engaged in social work until joining the Congregation of Marian Fathers in 1908. He initiated the work of reforming the congregation and became its superior general. He also founded the Sisters of the Immaculate Conception. In October, 1923, he was named Bishop of Wilno. Later, elevated to the rank of archbishop and given the titular See of Aduli, he was named Apostolic Visitor of Lithuania. He died in Kowno, January 27, 1927.

Chicago's Mail Snarl

By PATRICK J. SLOYAN
Washington (UPI) — The World Series . . . Women . . . Mayor John Lindsay of New York . . . Viet Nam . . . Racial Protest . . . Politics . . . Street Construction . . . Bureaucratic Stupidity.

These are some of the reasons advanced for the October collapse of Chicago's big mail hub and a resulting snarl in other major post offices across the nation.

The major reason, of course, was too much mail. But there were other factors.

"Christmas came early in Chicago," said Charles Kroloff, a post office department spokesman.

TO UNDERSTAND what happened in Chicago is to grasp what's wrong with the entire U.S. Postal system. Other major post offices share with Chicago the overriding pressure of 80 billion pieces of mail — an annual volume which had not been expected until the 1970's.

The crisis began in September as 10 Chicago mail order houses began mailing their catalogs. Then direct advertising mail started spurring. A pickup in parcel post helped increase Chicago's mail volume to nearly triple normal.

The surge in bulk mail originating in Chicago probably was Lindsay's doing. The New York Mayor imposed a tax on Manhattan bulk mail printers and they promptly sent their business to Chicago.

THE TWO-BLOCK long Chicago Post Office, built in 1933, would be in an ideal location — if 10,000 trains still were running. But there are only 920 trains today. The rail head location is no help to giant trucks trying to squeeze into the building's tiny docking facilities. Morever, the streets outside the docks were under construction, compounding the congestion.

Inside, the mail overflowed into every available corner. Soon workers couldn't walk, much less find space to sort the mail. Workers also failed to show up. On some days, absenteeism ran as high as 10 per cent among the 10,000-worker force.

THE WORLD SERIES may have kept some of them home by the television set. Another factor may have been a protest demonstration against the post office administration.

Schola Cantorum Will Sing
Polish Carols Over Network

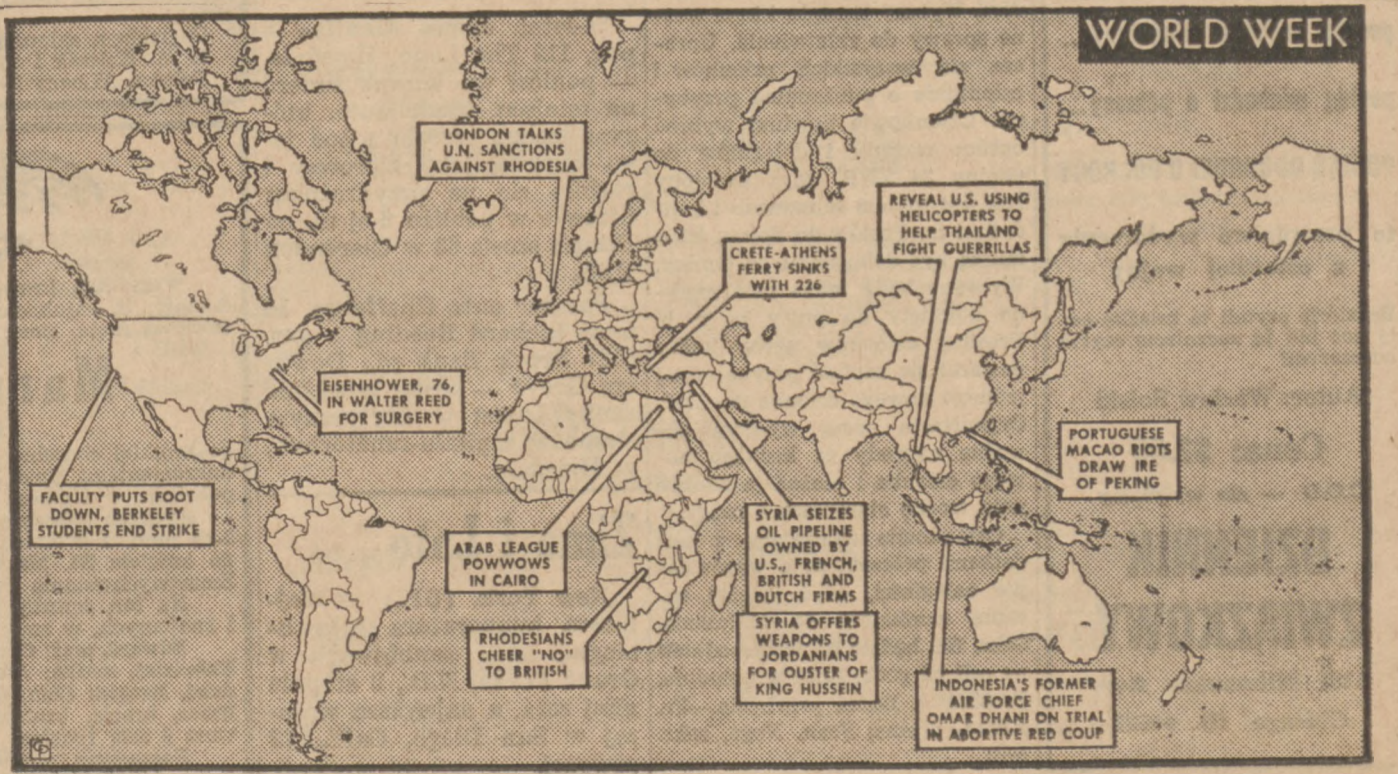

The Schola Cantorum of SS. Cyril and Methodius Seminary in Orchard Lake, Michigan, will be heard nationally over the CBS radio network in a program of Polish Christmas carols. The 29th consecutive broadcast will originate from the Columbia Broadcasting System on Tuesday, December 20 at 8:45 p.m. (EST).

Known internationally through frequent broadcasts and RCA Victor and Capitol recordings, the 40-voice choir will render the musical traditions of their Polish heritage. The students comprising the choir represent many Polish areas in some 14 states and Canada.

THE CHRISTMAS selections consist of Kolendy, profound churchly carols, and Pastoralki, rhythmically spiritual seasonal folk songs.

The Schola Cantorum is conducted by Father Henry Waraksa, director of Sacred Music and a recognized authority in the field of Polish hymnology. He is widely known for many publications of liturgical compositions and musical arrangements of Polish songs.

THE ACCOMPANIMENT for the broadcast is provided by Walter Budweil, a Hamtramck organist and choir master who also directs several singing groups, among them the nationally known Filarets Chorus. Marshall Lackowski, an accordionist from Ruth, Michigan, and Fred Banas on string bass from Easthampton, Massachusetts, are student instrumentalists providing the rhythm for the rollicking Pastoralki.
