Frans Hals

It is a portrait of a young man, possibly a soldier, wearing a military uniform with a plumed helmet and a sash. The subject is shown from the chest up, facing slightly to the right. The background is a plain, light color.

The artist, Frans Hals, was a Dutch painter who specialized in portraits and scenes of everyday life. He is known for his loose, expressive brushwork and his ability to capture the individuality of his subjects. This portrait is a fine example of his work, showing a young man in a military uniform.
