AD M. HERMANNVM VASTELABVM
Vicquid agis fiderier agas, & nitere tantum,
Officij partis ut tueare tui.
Degeneres aliena parant: sapit apius ille,
Intra fortunam qui cupit esse suam.
Nec ibi successus aberunt, licet acria lingua
Tela venenata sint metuenda bonis.
Omnibus hoc vitium sciolis, aliena cauillo
Carpere, & innocuos exagitare probris.
Crede mihi sua qui curat, bene vivit, & extra
Præscriptum debet tendere nemo suum.

4. Vocum ARNOLDVS GROTHYSIVS.

A musical score for four voices (4 Vocum) and three instrumental parts (Ad aequales). The vocal parts are written on four-line staves, and the instrumental parts are on three-line staves. The music consists of two systems of measures. The first system ends with a double bar line and repeat dots, indicating a repeat of the previous section. The lyrics are in Latin and German. The first section starts with "sic Deus tuam" and continues with "Gott sei all dein zuuersicht". The second section begins with "Vmb menschen gunst" and ends with "so wirt Gott dein beschirmer sein". The music is composed of vertical stems with small horizontal dashes, typical of early printed music notation.
