WARSAW THFWEEKLY Editorial and Business Offices Mokotowska 12/4, Warsaw, Poland, Telephone 884-30. Subscription rates — zl. 3.50 quarterly, zl. 13.00 yearly Foreign 4/- or $1. quarterly, 15/- or $3.75 yearly. Sole member for Poland of the North American Newspaper Alliance P. K. O. 29898.

FRIDAY

JUNE 21

1935

Agrarian Situation in America

By George E. Sokolsky

Cotton States will not soon forget the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. A war might have been more devastating but, in the present temper of Southerners as I found them during my recent visits, no economic progress could have harmed them more.

When the dollar was devalued, When the dollar was devalued, the cotton farmer assumed that he was being put on a competitive basis in the cotton market of the World. In that market the United States has held a dominent position during the whole course of the machine age. During recent years of economic nationalism, high Tariffs, artificial exchange stabilization, etc., the export of cotton, as of all commodities, lessened, but the American producer still held the market.

Then the AAA came along and cotton, as of all commodities, lessened, but the American producer still held the market. Then the AAA came along and wiped out every advantage that the devalued dollar gave the American cotton farmer. He lost the devalued dollar gave the American cotton farmer. He lost the market for 50 per cent of his product, first because he had no cotton to export and, secondly, because his price, due to processing, was altogether out of line with world prices.

The excuse offered by the processors is that no market for cotton exists during this year of depression. Yet the fact remains that in 1934-5 Brazil will produce 1,561,000 bales of cotton, as compared with a normal production of about 400,000 bales. In a word, the Brazilians are throwing an additional million bales on the market which they are confident exists. Egypt and India are increasing cotton production, while Soviet Russia is developing a new cotton region in Kazakistan.

What the processors apparently forget when they made AAA plans was that when the quality of cotton produced is reduced, a large number of human beings are throw out of work. The share-cropper, who has now become the representative type of the American dispossessed, finds that the AAA Program leaves him without the means of earning a living. The negro cotton picker has been thrown on relief almost entirely. Gin workers, packers, transportation workers and thousands of others have been thrown out of employment.

Southern states have very few pay crops—cotton, sugar, lumber and truck gardening. All have been processed and controlled and rigidities have been imposed upon marketing until the southern farmer, land-owner, share-cropper, agricultural worker, country banker and store-keeper each finds himself in distress. In addition, processing and the general reduction of crops have raised the price of manufactured commodities. They have raised detected the cost of living. The farmer who receives a processing check from the government finds that that check has a constantly decreasing value because of the Southern states have very fe w Juliusz Osterwa, one of the most talented contemporary actors, has a peculiar rôle in the postwar expansion of the Polish theatre. Not only has he enriched the stage with splendid representations of the heroes of Słowacki. Wyspiański, Zeromski, and Shakespeare, but also played an important part in the enlargement of theatrical culture by the founding of the "Reduta" theatre. This theatre, under his direction, travels over the whole of Poland every year, penetrating the most hidden corners, fuffiling one of the most precious privilegies, that of inculcating a feeling for at and literature among the people. In 1932 Osterwa was decorated with the highest order of the Ministry of Culture for his creation of the role of Konrad, which he is now playing in the memorial presentation of Wyspiański's "Wyzwolenie" to the memory of the late Marshal Piłsudski.

rise in commodity prices and taxes. The farmer who gets the check discovers it is not what he anticipates it will bring him.

He is beginning to understand that he cannot make money by reducing production, that money to him can come only from selling goods in markets — in whatever markets are available. In fact, I found men who were willing to admit that they might be better off if their product sold for a lower price than they are with government protection of the price.

Another factor in this situation is the increased import of animals and food commodities from abroad. and food commodities from abroad. When farmers in lowa see pigs coming into their state from China, they are annoyed even if processing has generally helped them. Their reaction is more psychological than economic. Iowa once provided the world with pigs and might still be able to do it but for the destructive effect of processing. For the first three months of 1935 the United States imported more than 500,000 pounds of fresh pork as compared with 43,166 last year; in March, 1935,280,716 pounds were imported as compared with 26,557 during the same month in 1934. Take fresh beef, for instance. In 1935, for the first three months, nearly two million pounds as compared with 9,824 for the same period in 1934. In March, 1935, more than one million pounds were imported; in March, 1934, 2,811 pounds.

It is true that these quantities are small compared with the total food consumption in the (Continued on page 6 col. 8)

Cotton Deal

The Ministry of Industry and Commerce has already ratified a compensation agreement recently between the Textile Manufactures Association of Łódź and Amsinck, Sonne and Company of New York stipulating additional exports of Polish products into the United States or elsewhere as a partial compensation for Polish imports of American cotton.

for Polish imports of American cotton.

Since the United States represents a principal source of cotton requirements for Poland, the agreement in question is considered as one of the most significant events of recent years in Polish-American trade relations. Pursulation the American trade relations. are the street of the street o the agreement, designating the American Trading Company, of New York, as their representa-

It is estimated that the deal in question will involve about 50,000,000 zlotys per annum, thus contributing to a reduction in the unfavourable trade balance Poland has with the United States. This unfavourable balance in 1934 amounted to nearly 100,000,000

The contract has been signed as of May 1, 1935, and is to be valid for a period of three years unless previously terminated un-der special conditions. All such valid for a period of three years unless previously terminated under special conditions. All such disputes as might arise will be decided by arbitration. The provisions of the contract are applicable only to fifty per cent. of Polish purchase of American cotton. Orders for the remaining half may be placed elsewhere in the United States.

It is further stipulated that cotton sold through MacPadden should respond as to prices and grades to the existing prices in the open market, and on conditions quoted by other competitors and uniformly accepted by international cotton exchanges at Bremen and Liverpool, or even Gdynia, if the latter will be officially recognized as such. MacPadden, moreover, waive any extra charges for their compensation services, and agree to arrange for sight payments against documents for the exported Polish products. If necessary, they would also have to provide Polish products. If necessary, they would also have to provide Polish products if necessary, they would also have to provide Polish products. If necessary, they would also have to provide Polish exporters with bankers' guarantees, and, in certain cases, make advances to them before delivery of merchandise. Since this action to increase Polish exports by an amount estimated at 50,000,000 zlotys may prove to be only partly successful, particularly during the first year, there is a provision that, if such be the case, MacFadden's share of cotton exports to Poland may be decreased proportionally. Although the contract in question compels Polish manufacturers to cover a major portion of their requirements through the intermediary of a single house in the United States, thus causing at times certain inconveniences to some of the Polish importers, it has been unanimously agreed some of the rollsh importers, it has been unanimously agreed that benefits should accrue to the Polish export trade in particular and to the balance of trade in general.

this connection, it is on this connection, it is on special interest to review briefly Polish-American trade figures, pointing to the all important rôle of Polish cotton imports in relation to other items.

POLISH-AMERICAN TRADE

In millions of zlotys

	1929	1932	1933	1934
Polish
imports	384	104	110	121
Polish exports	31	10	16	23
Unfavourable
Balance	353	94	94	98

Import to Export Polish Imports of cotton from U. S. A. 8% 9.6% 14.5% 18.8%

212 74 80 U. S. A. Percentage of Polish cotton imports to total imports from U.S.A. 55.3%69.7%72.8%68.5%

form U.S.A. 55.3% 69.7% 72.8% 68.5% As can be seen from the above, American cotton in the last three years, represented, on the average, seventy per cent. of total American exports to Poland. On the other hand, the huge unfavourable balance of trade against Poland, that reached its climax in 1929, could not be tolerated longer had Poland to maintain stability of her currency. That is why successive years have brought a very sharp contraction of Polish imports from the United States, such imports being principally confused to the most vital raw materials, in the first place cotton, and to indispensable machinery. At the same time, incessant efforts have been made to induce the American made to induce the American market to accept a larger portion of Polish exports so as to pre-vent a further contraction in Povent a further contraction in Polish imports. As can be seen from the above table, considerable success has been achieved along these lines, the proportion of Polish exports to the United States increasing from 8 per cent. in 1929 to 18.8 per cent. in 1929 to 18.8 per cent. in 1934. It is precisely due to such concerted action that the unfavourable trade balance has been stabilized during the last three years at the level of ninety-plus million zlotys. The compensation years at the even of minery-pius million zlotys. The compensation cotton agreement referred to above should be considered, there-fore, as another important step in the direction of further developing Polish - American trade re-lations despite the continuing depression. The success, how-ever of such action is yet to be

The city authorities remind all consumers of ice that, according to a decree of the Ministry of Public Health, only coloured artificial ice may be placed in drinks or used for human consumption. Artificial ice is coloured pink with a dye that is absolutely harmless.

MARSHAL PIŁSUDSKI HIGHWAY

KOMITET SZLAKU MARSZAŁKA PIŁSUDSKIEGO WARSZAWA, MOKOTOWSKA 61, tel. 848-12. Konto w P.K.O. 1800

Among the many projects for memorials to the late Marshal Pilsudski, the Road League has taken under its special protection the project of a highway to be named in honour of the Marshal which will stretch from Kenków in the south to Wilso in the north.

in the south to Wilno in the north.

Some sections of this highway have already been approved as part of the six year road plan of the Ministry of Communications, and the estimated cost of the project has been placed between 80,000,000 and 120,000,000 zlotys. The projected highway is to have a uniform width of six metres, with asphalt, concrete or granite surfacing, while horse drawn vehicles will be accommodated on two gravel roads running parallel with the asphalt road, both having a width of 3.5 metres. Trees will line the road, and, if present plans mature, hedgerows will add their greenery.

A second, and somewhat cheaper, project is the 6 metre road with only one side road 2 metres in width.

Just which plan will be adopted is not yet certain, nor has the

is not yet certain, nor has the financial scheme been worked out.

The Road League has called special committees to work, and it is expected that the first planting of trees will take place this autumn.

Special designs for the kilo-

Special designs for the kilo-metre markers, road signs, and posts are to be submitted, and already requests have come in asking for the privilege of financing these signs. Other cities, through which the highway pass, are contemplating the

EXCELLENT CAREFULLY BUILT IN STOCK AND TO ORDER

FURNITURE S-to KRZYSKA 6 apt. 3

TRAVEL & SEND YOUR FREIGHT VIA AIR FRANCE WARSAW-PRAGUE-VIENNA-BUDAPEST BUCHAREST - PARIS - LONDON

AIR FRANCE, 35 Al. Jerozolimska Tel. 8-58-13

Connection Made By The "Railway Air Service Ltd" from Coydon to Birmingham, Minchester, Liverpool, Belfast, Glasgow.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The city authorities of Warsaw have requested taxicab chauffeurs and police officers to direct visitors asking for information to the Tourist Propaganda Union of the city of Warsaw, at Wierzbowa 8.

Unemployment figures for the week ending June 1, give the number of unemployed in Poland as 413,882. This shows a decrease of 19,334 from the last report.

The new motorship Pitsudski will sail from Gdynia on the 14th of September. The voyage to New York will take eight days. The second motorship Batory is expected to be ready to sail in March of 1936.

The naval training ship "Iskra" reached Lisbon on June 14 and remained in port until June 17, when it left for the Balearic Isles.

Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, visited Danzig last week. He addressed the Association of Danzig Merchants, accenting the opinion that the Danzig gulden, at its present level, is strong, and should be safe from further devaluation.

Meanwhile, the Danzig Senate has passed provisions for the control of currency, and the export of capital is forbidden. This makes transactions between Poland and the Free City difficult.

On Sunday, June 16, busts of Marshal Piłsudski and General Sowiński were unveiled at the First Gymnasium in Warsaw.

81,437 zloty* have been gathered among city employees for a monu-ment to Marshal Piłsudski, which is to be built in Warsaw.

President Smetona of Lithuania President Smetona of Lithuania in a recent address, pointed out that Lithuania has not yet given up hope of regaining Wilno as a capital. Wilno, the cradle of our national spirit, our capital, shall be ours." This is, perhaps, specious optimism.

The Polish Government has refused to entertain the protest of the Danzig Senate against the action of the Polish Postoffice of the Danzig Senate against the action of the Polish Postoffice in Danzig which has been receiving money orders in zlotys. The Government points out that this practice has been provided for in agreements between Poland and Danzig.

A lawyer, imprisoned for the misuse of funds entrusted to his care, has received permission to translate the criminal codes of other nations into Polish.

The case of the City of Warsaw against the narrow gauge railway connecting Warsaw with Skolimów is not yet finished. The city will sue for considerable damages as they claim the refusal of the railway to observe the contract prevented the city from building tram lines.

He also found that, thanks to excellent pioneering on the part of a few business men, the demand for Polish goods was growing, especially for bacon, glassware, and wooden articles. This demand is not only evident among Polish groups in the United States but also comes from the wider commercial sphere. He cautioned, however, that the American market is difficult to capture and requires real and solid work but that the gain is worth the effort.

Bulgarian strawberries are being Bulgarian strawberries are being imported, and the medium of transportation is "Lot," the Polish Air Line. Each shipment has been nearly three hundred kilogram mes The trip is made in nine hours, and, thanks to careful packing, the strawberries are still quite fresh when they come on the market. on the market.

It is stated that the Teatr Kaminskiego near Dynasy will be torn down and that a group of foreign capitalists is contem-plating building a modern film studio in its stead.

The city ordinance forbidding the use of city streets in the centre of the city to heavy lorries and horse drawn vehicles between eight in the morning and eleven in the evening has been modified at the request of many firms, to whom special permits will be given allowing them to deliver goods to shops within these limits during the day.

The Council of Ministers has The Council of Ministers has approved the widening of the city limits of Gdynia so that, within that city, are now included the villages of Obluze, Witomino, Orlowo Morskie, and Zagórze, The city will, in the future. stretch twenty kilometres along the shore, and will be five kilometres in width.

Fruit continues dear, with the price of cherries fluctuating between 2.80 zlotys to 4 zlotys per kilogramme. This wide price differential has caused pointed comment in the press which agrees in condemning the whole-salers and retailers for speculating

The information given in these columns last week that a special edition of the works of Marshal Piłsudski is being prepared to sell for 2.50 złotys the set is officially denied.

The Army Bookshop announces at it is preparing a special that it is preparing a special edition of photographs of Mar-shal Piłsudski, and asks anyone possessing pictures of interest to communicate with them.

Madame Pilsudska, acompanied by her two daughters, left for Rumania on June 15, where she will spend a few weeks' holiday.

With U. S. A.

From G DYNIA s. s. "Scarplaka"

s. s. "Scanyork" - July 4 from NEW YORK

s. s. "Argosy" — J u n e 27 s. s. "Scanstates" — J u l y 11

American Scantic Line

Telegr.. "Mooremack"

Warsaw, Al. Jerozolimska 33 — Tel. 995-96 Gdynia, Madbrzeże Polskie — Tel. 17-324 _______

IMPRESSIONS OF AMERICA

Gazeta Polska publishes The Gazeta Polska publishes an interview with Dr. Henryk Gruber, president of the Postal Savings Bank, who recently returned from a visit of five weeks to the United States, during which he had the opportunity to meet many influential men in the business world, and in official circles in Washington.

Dr. Gruber stated that the purpose of his visit had been to form, for himself, an opinion of what was going on in the United States. At the same time, he pointed out, he had the opportunity of giving information about economic processes in Poland.

Dr. Grube:

Dr. Gruber lectured at Columbia University, in Chicago, at the Brookings Institute in Washington and appeared before the Foreign Affairs Club of Cleveland.

Dr. Gruber stated it as his opinion that Americans were, by nature, optimists, and this, added to the immense natural resources that the United States has, would eaable that country to come out of the current depression.

Americans are very much interested in Poland, he thought, interested in Poland, he thought, and they especially showed curiosity on matters of commerce and finance, a little surprised that Poland had managed to maintain her valuta and balance her budget. Poland is regarded, he said, as a good partner with whom it is possible to carry on business quietly.

PRESS REVIEW

Change in Rural Policy

The Czas, considering the situation of agriculture in Poland, feels that now is the time, not so much for moral encouragement of the farmer, as for concrete action giving beneficial results however small they may be. this connection it suggests t the bureaucracies grown up that the bureaucracies grown up in the Department of Agriculture and in agricultural organizations and in agricultural organizations themselves, have here a splendid opportunity to lop off their un-desirable elements and to exert a beneficial influence on the farmer both morally and mater-

Tarmer both morally and materially.

The new line of the government agricultural policy is to aim, as reports show, toward the development of cattle-raising and the subsequent export of meat produced. subsequent export of meat prod-ucts, while the bounties and subsidies on exported grain are to be cancelled. Naturally, such action will cause great losses at first to agriculture, for there is no means of foreseeing exactly how soon cattle-raising will make up for the loss of the grain pre-

The Czas argues:

Poland must find funds to even up the losses to agriculture. It is necessary to decide, however, whether these funds are to be used for further subsidies, or for exempting agriculture from certain taxes which it will not be in a position to pay. Taking into account the difficulties of disposing of grain, especially eye, on our world markets, the policy should tend toward,

1) a decrease in the supply of rye;
a fair and even distribution of what remains.

The Czas argues that rye must return to the peasant's table in the form of bread, and the potato which superseded it as a f article must find a market article must find a market in manufactured articles as spirits, starch, etc. Should such a campaign lead to the decrease in the over-supply of rye, then the second problem might be handled as it is handled now in many countries — by means of registered credit with the grain crop as security. This credit, however, should be prevented, so far næ as security. This credit, however, should be prevented, so far as possible from becoming an object of speculation; but in the opinion of the Czas all improvements in this kind of credit are only half-measures so long as the financial pressure exists.

The unavoidable consequence of such a sharp change in our agricultural policy will be the necessity of unburdening agriculture during the transition. It will be imperative to cancel the ten per tax, to waive the second installment on the land tax, and all nuncipal taxes connected with it, to divide into easy lastallments all tax arrears due in the and turn, and finally to prolong the term of payment for the death of agricultura.

The Czas concludes, that since this change came rather suddenly agriculture is still a little dazed by it, but there is nothing to do but to get into stride again and work energetically along the plan outlined in the new policy.

The Gulden or the Zloty?

The ABC Nowiny Codzienne regards the situation of the Danregards the situation of the Dan-zig guiden as more than a mere financial crisis; the panicky attitude of the people indicates a profound loss of confidence in the present city authorities, and a serious weakening of Nazi influence in the Free City. Behind all this there looms a still more important crisis, that of Danzig's fundamental attitude toward Poland. The ABC sees in Dr. Schacht's recent visit to Dan-zig an attempt to steady with his or. Schacht's recent visit to Dan-zig an attempt to steady with his personal prestige the waning authority of the Senate and the shaking faith in the gulden. But he was obliged at the same time to explain why the foundations this currency cracked.

Dr. Schacht pointed out two moments:

1) That on such a small territory and such an unusual economic situation it is extremely difficult for Danzig to defend her own valuta; 2) That the basic blunder was in Danzig's separation from the English pound when that began to fall four Danzig's separation from the English pound when that began to fall four years ago.

To a clear admission energe out of these arguments that the original and fundamental sin of Danzig was the creation of a carrency different from Poland's, and the maintenance of it on a constant of the control of the contr

The ABC next points out that The ABC next points out that Danzig, being one terrain with Poland as far as customs duties are concerned, ought to have tended toward a common valuta unit, but that in the hurry to separate as far as possible from Poland, she set up a different unit at the same time that Poland was prenaring to stabilize her was preparing to stabilize her finances on the zloty. The subsequent depreciation of the zloty to its present level caused a natural edging away by Polish trade from a port maintaining so high a currency as Danzig—which was interpreted by Danzig as Polish malice toward the Free

Even after the fall of the English pound on which this whole system was based, Danzig preferred to remain on the level with the Gierman mark rather than with the Polish Jolyx. The way out of the difficulties, of which the Free City voluntarily laid the foundations fifteen years ago, is now for Danzig herself to choose. It all depends to the present of the natural valut consequent of the natural valut consequence of the pursuit of a fiction which is daily becoming more troublesome and expensive for her.

Who Fathers the Unemployed?

The pro-Government Kurjer Poranny carries a leader on the case of Polish labourers deported from France. After a rather sentimental portrayal of their tragic plight, this journal undertakes to show that such deportation is as unsound economically as it is bental.

brutal.

If nothing else, then surely the ten years' experience of the United States are surely experience of the United States are surely experience of the States and the results of such action. Use against the results of such action. Use against the results of such action. Use against the results of the American Federalion of Labour, the United States shut its doors to immigration shortly after the war. What were the results?... Within the country, even though surrounded by high tariff barriers to protect industry and forestall unemployment, there are an army of unemployed reaching into an army of unemployed reaching into an immigration would have.

The Kurjer Poranny reasons further that in the long run the native labourer gains nothing at all for such action puts no check on the capitalists' exploitation of his class

The final result, then, is that the inhosoitable country exposes itself to social pumping only increased the more by the pressure of those countries to which the re-immigration wave to the fact is that when the number of the frontier beautiful the countries. Their under of the frontier barriers — their under of the frontier barriers — their under of the frontier to worse conditions of existence and labour for the working classes in all countries.

countries.

"For such is the vicious circle in which our present economic system locks labour; and such, the system in which workmen find common interests and common weapons in their struggle for life. Willy-nilly, they must look above and beyond the barriers from which unemployment and misery stares them in the face.

M. Karol Huszar, former Hun-M. Agroi miszar, iomer hun-garian Premier, was a recent visitor in Warsaw. M. Huszar is writing a book which will be published in both Polish and Hungarian, and is to be called "Poland and Hungary."

Art, Music & Literature

Lady Windermere's Fan

At the time of its writing, Lady Windermere's Fan was undoubtedly no little sensation. The plot, which is spun mainly around the then prevalent fear of social disgrace and the ostracism attending it, certainly moved the theatre public at the turn of the century; the experiences of Miss Evbrune and Lady. turn of the century; the experiences of Miss Erlynne and Lady Windermere then had dramatic force, and Wilde's paradoxes, boldness and novelty. To-day, these merits of the play have faded out of sight; we are unmoved by the deed of Lord and Lady Windermere and we even condemn the former for his and Lady Windermere and we even condemn the former for his atter-of-fact acceptance of Miss Erlynne's sacrifice. It is rather the witty sparkle of the dialogue and the flair for comic situation that account for

It is rather the witty sparkle of the dialogue and the flair for comic situation that account for the Fan's popularity now.

The Teatr Narodowy, meanwhile, after making one mistake in presenting the play at all, added to it by improper directing. It, as is done on English stages, a lively tempo in the action had been struck, the play might still have been amusing and the artificiality of the situations, less apparent; but Mr. Wegierko, who always has such a keen sense for the tone of a play this time seems to have done all he could to bring out its faults by emphasizing the very artificial phasizing the very artificial dramatic conflicts and neglecting the comic and grotesque moments.

dramatic conflicts and neglecting the comic and grotesque moments. This directing had its effect on the work of the artists, too, who, to make matters worse, were mis-cast; though able to cover with their artistry the psychological defects in the parts they played, they were not able to create convincing characters. The casting of Miss Erlynne wronged two great artists at the same time. Przybtko-Potocka poured in the full measure of her talent, but in a rôle completely unsuited to her, she was not able to charm with her usual brilliance. Why was not this rôle given to Irena Solska, famous for many years as a suberb Miss Erlynne? This error in casting is entirely executively. as a suberb Miss Erlynne? This error in casting is entirely inexplicable and cannot but be disagreeable to both these artists. Only Junosza-Stępowski struck the right note, and again gave one of his matchless comic one of his matchless comic characters.

The remaining artists, except for the very amusing Misses Barszczewska and Daszyńska, in no case may be said to have given the impression of London high life.

To fia Wezieskows were good.

The decorations and costumes by Zofja Węgierkowawere good. On the whole, the impression made by the play was weak; surely, The Importance of Being Earnest, played on this same stage, ought to have been a pointer, showing how Occare. pointer showing how O Wilde's comedies should presented in our times.

Exhibition at the Zacheta of Mehoffer's Works

A jubilee exhibition of the paintings of Joseph Mehoffer is now taking place at the Zacheta. The output of this artist is one of extraordinary versatility. There seems to be no branch of the painter's art in which he has not created weeks of exemption. painter's art in which he has not created works of exceptional merit. Joseph Mehoffer belongs in time to the period of Mtoda Polska (Young Poland) working especially in Kraków in the period of Wspiański, end of the 19th Century and beginning of the 20th. But the artist in question has not limited himself to any particular period.

He is by temperament perhaps more classiciet than rowantificit any particular period.

He is by temperament perhaps more classicist than romanticist.
His most celebrated works are the painted glass windows which he did for the churches in Freiburg, Switzerland, and the Wawel in Kraków. They may be boldly compared to the best examples of the Middle Ages in their rich colouring and ornamen-tation. His decorations have a particular Polish character in their colouring, reminding one of Kra-ków and the picturesque Polish peasant folk.

But Mehoffer has not limited himself to one branch alone; he has numberless landscapes, portraits, religious pictures, flower paintings, and so on. All reveal the hand of the most painstaking the hand of the most painstaking artist whom the best alone can satisfy. Every detail is worked out with utmost conscientiousness, nothing is done for effect but all arises from inward necessity. This is the more admirable y. This is the most en we consider the number works this industrious artist — K. M. has created.

Birthday Celebration of Felicyan Szopski

or rencyan szopski

i The well-known composer, professor and musical critic Felicyan Szopski celebrated his seventieth birthday anniversary on June 17. The Polish Radio and Madame Wajdo-Karolewicz, director of the Opera, had the good idea of doing honour to the composer by giving an audition
of his opera Littles with transmission to all European stations.

of his opera Littles with transmission to all European stations.
Felicyan Szopski is a composer of great eminence and this opera of his may be considered as the crowning point of his creation. It is indeed a noble work founded on a Polish legend the theme of Mickiewicz's ballad, Pani zabita pana. Szopski has woven in Polish folk-songs as the leading motif of his work which has an intrinsically Polish character even quite apart from the ter even quite apart from the subject matter and the themes. The music is dramatic and noble and there is nothing forced about it although one feels the hand of a highly cultured musician deeply versed in all the technique of his art. The orchestration is colourful and interesting and the chorus writing quite exceptionally beautiful. Szopski knows how to combine happily the melodiousness of the former school with modern technique of instrumentation. One of his great merits is his vocal noble and there is nothing forced technique of instrumentation. One of his great merits is his vocal writing, the parts for the soloists are effective. The performance was excellent, all the soloists, that, is, Mrs. Borer and Miss Szabrańska, sopranos, Messrs. Golębiowski, tenor, Maj, baritone, and Wranghard and was made and was subject a manufactured thouse. Golephowski, tenor, Maj, baritone, and Wraga bass, acquitted them-selves of their task extremely well. The chorus was exception-ally good — it should be empa-sized that under the direction of any good — It should be empa-sized that under the direction of Mrs. Korolewicz the choruses of the Opera have improved immensely—while the conductor Dot-życki was evidently inspired to more than usual enthusiasm. He led his band with fervour and the musicians answered to his bâton.

An interesting fact related by the Speaker in his account of Szopski's life is that the idea of writing Lilies founded on the Mickiewicz ballad was discussed between Szopski and Wyspiański in the early days of the musician's career when he still lived in Kraków.

It is a matter of regret that It is a matter of regret that this opera, which was first per-formed in Warsaw in 1916, is so seldom given for it is one of the pearls of Polish musical litera-ture and deserves far higher re-cognition than it has until now received.

received.

One must say that the music speaks for itself and the accessories of the scene and decoration seem hardly necessary.

After the audition in the

After the audition in the Opera House Professor Szopski, who was present, received a warm ovation from the orchestra and performers.

May he live yet many years and write more such master-pieces as Lilies!— K. M.

AIR ROUTE COLONISTS

By Junius B. Wood

Wake Island, May 29. — Since his fellow members of a dock unloading gang palmed off a dried fish eye on Kansas Sam as a rare pearl, this island's souvenir collecting industry has lost considerable prestige.

The same day a well-digging gang of the Pan-American Airways Expedition discovered in the sand twenty feet down, and under four feet of water, a good-sized joint of a whale's backbone.

As the well is a quarter of a mile inland, this find was at first hailed as another of the archeological freaks abounding in these islands. But closer inspection of the whale bone disclosed a islands. But closer inspection of the whale bone disclosed a penciled dedication by the chief well-digger, so it was obviously merely a cheap imitation of the salted gold mine trick, and the episode has caused all souvenirs to be regarded with a fishy eye. Despite the trade tricks, the only thing lacking for a flourishing souvenir business is the tourists souvenir business is the tourists to buy them. The lagoon between Wilkes and Peale Islands, and in fact the entire twelve-mile cir-cumference of the atoll is literal-ly a treasure bed for those persons who delight in collecting persons who delight in collecting strangely shaped stones, curious bones and multicoloured shells to take home and put on the parlor mantel for somebody else to dust future years.

Kansas Sam proudly extracts his Kansas Sam proudly extracts his treasure from a cranny of his blue denim shorts and exhibits the "pearl" to all comers. As everybody else knows its real origin, though no more familiar with precious stones than a harvest hand from a Kansas wheat field, all frenks of nature are now received with lacer. looks When received with leery looks. When held between the eye and the sun, the synthetic pearl shows all the delicate tints and changing colours of an opal. Aside from a faint dried fish aroma, it Isn't a faint dried that arona, it isn't a bad imitation.

Somebody seriously appraised a pearl of that size as being worth $200 to any gem dealer in Manila. However, it was wisely added that Manila jewelers (Continued on page 5 col. 3)

HOTEL DIRECTORY

Warsaw

BRISTOL Centre of the city. 250 rooms Restaurant—Cocktail Bar—

Wilho

ST.-GEORGES Adama Mickiewicza 20 Wilno.

Poznań

CONTINENTAL A Home Away From Home

DEATH IS A TORY

By Keats Patrick

(Homer Huddleston and Tom Collins, summoned by telephone, reach Marshall Rich's place, to find him with a gun in his hand, confessing to the murder of his wife and Felix Starbuck. When the police arrive they discover anoth-er near the bodies).

Tom and Homer found two or three early-bird reporters out in the corridor when they left the jail with Clem, who drove the correspondents back to the Rich house, so Homer could get his car.

It was daylight, and Homer, for all the sleep that weighted his eyelids, got a new and completer view of the house and its surroundings. Pretty, very pretty, and quite rural, too.

Homer drove Tom to his house near the Cathedral, and then lit out for home in the Cleveland Heights quarter.

quarter.

His wife, Prentice, was dozing on the living-room couch. Homer staggered in, flopped into a chair.

Prentice said: "You poor boy, I'll have coffee in a minute." And she did have. Homer gulped down a big cupful, black and hot.

"I didn't wait for it to drip, I just boiled it in a saucepan," Prentice said. "Maybe there are grounds."

Best I ever tasted," Homer said, "Give us another."

other He had another and then his wife brought him a glass of ice-cold grapefruit juice. A model wife,

Then she sat down in front of Homer and said:

Then she she 'Shoot!'

"Shoot!'
"Don't say that!" Homer yelled.
"Well, here's the story." Cactus Rich and Felix Starbuck are dead, and Marshall Rich shot 'em."
Prentice sucked in her breath.
"Murder?"
"Br. says so himself."

"Murder"
"He says so himself."
"And what did you have to do with it?"
Homer puffed a big sigh as the horrors of the night before came back and sat on his chest.

"And what did you have to do with it?"

Homer puffed a big sigh as the horrors of the night before came back and sat on his chest.

"You aren't mixed up in the matter any way, are you?" Prentice asked, with one of those swift attacks of suspicion the most loving of wives will have.

"Yes and no." Homer answered.

Prentice leaned back on the sofa and said. "I knew it!" Then she sat up, folded her hands on her lap, and said. "Go ahead, tell me all about it."

Prentice was by New England out of the Middle West, as one might say. Just a little prim-minded. A round little person who looked her forty years, no more, no less. Her brown, longish-bobbed hair was all mussed, her coral-red dressing gown sort of wrinkled from sleeping in it, but to good old solid Homer, a bit on the pudgy side himself, she was still eminently desirable, even at that moment.

"Well, to start at the beginning," Homer began, and start at the beginning, "Homer began, and start at the beginning," Homer began, and start at the beginning, "Homer began, and start at the heefinning," Homer began, and start at the beginning, "Homer began, and start at the beginning he did, from the moment the telephone rang to where Rich said, "They're out in back." He stopped to wipe cold sweat from his high forehead, and rubbed his palms on his knees.

"We went out back", "Homer continued dutfully, his voice struggling with a lump in his thront. "It was dark. We stumbled around. Flower beds, with little bush things that grabbed at the ankles, you know. And everything quiet.

"Then we saw something white, but it was sitting up. Penny, for a minute I was glad. I thought it was somebody alive, and then the thought hit me that maybe it was somebody half dead. You know, a bullet through the head, maybe, and groping around bilind with blood, clean out of mind. I was seared.

"We went a little closer. The white thing didn't move, and my very first thought came back to me, that maybe it was a tablecloth spread on a bush to dry. That was her. I mean, it was set, Cactus, yo

"It was her. I mean it was she Cactus, you know It was ner. I mean, it was sne. cateus, you know.
It looked like her head was off. There's a low wall along the back of the yard, and she was up against it her legs underneath, and her head fallen back, and her arms spread out. Like she had been sitting on the wall when the bullet hit her, and she slid off slowly, trying when the builet hit her, and she sild off slowly, trying to hold on.

"There was no light. Just the whiteness of her dress, with a big, black-looking blotch on the front of it. And no head to see, just the throat going off into darkness. It was awful, I tell you."

Prentice got up and put her hand on her husband's head, and said: "Poor fellow. It must have been terrible. But go on."

"Then we looked down," Homer said, talking through his fingers. "There was the guy. On his back, with his arms up over his face. I'm glad his hands were over his face. He was right at her feet. So we stood there, and pretty soon we were aware of the brook going glog-glog glog down in the darkness, and we beat it. I tell you, Penny, it took all the strength I had to turn my back on those things."

"You poor boy," Prentice said, sitting on the floor next to Homer. "Oh, I'm so sorry for you. And then what happened?"

Homer took a long breath.

"I called up the cops, and they came and took us all away, Tom and me to be material witnesses. They kept us waiting while they made Rich talk, but he was willing to talk. He said he did it, and wanted to be humped off and have it over with. I forgot to tell you that he said he tried to kill himself, but lost his nerve."

"Oh, I'm wouldn't have gone through that for words," Prentice cried. "Now you go upstairs and take a shower and grab some sleep".

"It forgot to tell you", Homer said, without moving. "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gun he said he did the shooting "Rich gave Tom the gave Tom the gave Tom th with. When Tom gave it to the sheriff, you could have knocked us all over with one feather when the cops pulled out another gun that they said did the killing, and it did, too."

"Where did they get it and how did they know?"

"They fished it out of the brook behind the wall, and they know because it was of the same caliber that the bullets were. The bullets in the bodies."

"Simple enough," Prentice declared. "He dropped the first gun, couldn't find it, and went in the house to get another to kill himself with before he lost his get another to kill himself with before he lost his nerve."

"That theory is lousy", Homer replied, "because the gun Rich gave to Tom had been shot off three times, and not very long ago, either."

"Maybe he shot at himself three times and missed," Prentice said. "Oh, good morning, Amelia—" this to the colored cook-housemaid, who had come into the hall to see if it were really true Homer was awake at that hour. "There is a can of herring roe on top of the ice-box. Scramble it with eggs and make the coffee extra strong," said Prentice. "And extra quick," Homer added.

"What does this mean to you, Homer?" Prentice went on. "Are you going to be all mixed up in the case? What will the office think? Won't the M. E. be sore?"

sore?"
"The M. E. knows what he can do," Homer answered. "But I think I'll file a story. Be a good girl and get up a messenger, will you, in about fifteen minutes?"

minutes?"

So the old warhorse went to his typewriter and began to beat Hail Columbia out of his machine.

"Marshall Rich, one of the government's corps of professors laboring to remake Nature and Man in the United States, went to the telephone of his darkened home last night and called up a newspaper friend to announce he had killed his wife and her elegand remanance.

alleged paramour.

"Rich, who is...."

He made a good yarn of it, Homer did, and he made the bulldog edition of his paper with the story, and the Managing Editor was really happy about it — inwardly and secretly, as M. E.s always are happy.

"Tom

Tom, meanwhile, had followed just about the same routine. Mildred was a perfect wife too. She wasn't quite so cain about it, as Frentiee had been, because she had known the Riches and Felix very well indeed. Tom had to tell his story all the time she was making sne nad known the Riches and Felix very well indeed. Tom had to tell his story all the time she was making his coffee.

"—and there he was, his face the color of state Swiss cheese," Tom said, sitting on the kitchen table. "His hands were between his knees, the pistol in one of them. I said: Give me that gat, Marsh!, and he did, without moving anything but that one hand. Just staring, staring, It was terrible.

"He said he had come home late, but not late enough, and he caught the two of them, and then everything went red."

"Caught the two of them—you mean, he meant, that Cactus and Felix were—were—" Mildred stammered, slopping coffee all over the saucer. "Oh, I can't believe it."

"So I told him to show me where they — the bodies— were, and he wouldn't do it, so Homer and I went around back into the garden. Homer kept behind me. We followed the paths, and skirted the pool, and still we couldn't see anything, that was near by, and then we saw a glimmer of something white ahead of us, and sockel! hate to admit it, but I nearly let go of everything. I thought of ghosts. I honestly did. Me, Tom Collins, scared pink!

"Homer was hanging on to my arm. I had to pull him along. But whenever I wanted to stop he was shoving. So we got close enough to see, and there was Cactus, sort of hanging onto the wall, her head away back, her legs under her, and a big black glob on the front of her white dress."

Mildred began to sniffle a little.

"Wu-wu-wu-where was F-Felix?"

"On the ground, in front of Cactus, on his back, he looked ten feet long. We looked hard, and then Homer began to back off, pulling at me.

"Then came the worst of it, when they made me go out with 'em a second time, It's terrible how hard-bodied these was account with 'em a second time, It's terrible how hard-bodied these was a second time, It's terrible how hard-bodied these was a second time.

Homer began to back off, pulling at me.

"Then came the worst of it, when they made me go out with 'em a second time. It's terrible how hard-boiled those guys are. No more reverence for the dead than I have for an editorial writer.

"They made me lead'em to the spot. They had a flashlight. The sheriff did. One of the other two was the coroner. They stood there with the light on those two, switching it from Cactus to Felix and back again. Then one of them went away and came back with a big bright light on a slick he put into the ground, and they—the sheriff and the doctor—walked around looking at the bodies from all angles while the third guy stood by me, smoking a cigarette.

"First they took Felix's arms from his face. His eyes were wide open, staring straight up. It was awful, in that glaring light. You wanted to see the guy wink. You couldn't imagine how even dead eyes could stare into the light. Then the doctor went over to him, making notes in a booklet he had."

Mildred was twisting a strand of her taffy-colored hair with one hand. The other was propped under her chin, and her face was white. But she said: "What did chin, and her face was white. But she said: "What did the doctor find?"

"He didn't have to look very hard. The bullet got him in the throat, and he had bled a lot from his mouth. The blood had dried, so when they moved his arms and opened his collar the cloth made a sort of tearing sound as it came loose, Every time! pull a hunk of fly-paper off my clothes I'll remember that "I had to look away. There was another wound, in his belly or something. Then when I looked again they were taking Cactus and stretching her out. They had a sort of hard time getting her straight. Nearly pulled her clothes off, poor kid."

"What dress did she have on?"
"Christ, what a question! A white one, sort of flimsy, with little puff sleeves."
"I know the one," Mildred nodded.
"You wouldn't know it now," Tom commented grimly. "She was shot in the chest. The examiner just took out a little pair of scissors and cut the dress away, snipped off the straps of her underclothes and ripepd her bare to the waist."

"I can't imagine Cactus and Felix carrying on. Oh, I know she used to call him darling, but she called even you that. And Felix was always so gentlemanly and—and all."

even yot that "Yeah? Well, he had the reputation of making "Yeah? Well, he had the reputation of making Don Juan look like a martyred saint, as I told you when he began hanging around Ka."

Ka-Katherine O'Day; Mildred's sister, and, extraordinarily enough, Mildred's very best friend and companion.

"I think Ka can be trusted to spot a cad," Mildred flared "Talk about women being jealous gossips ____"

"I need a drink," he said, and took a bottle of brandy from the shelf over the refrigerator; from the bottle he took a good long gulp. "Have some?"

"No, thanks. What happened next?"

"The sheriff took me back to the house and Homer and I and the deputy got in one car, and Marsh and the sheriff in another, and off we went to the jail house."

He told the details.

He told the details.

Mildred looked up when he had finished.

"Another gun!" she exclaimed. "Why, how funnee-ee! Cactus, poor girl, always was fond of that revolver. Her father gave it to her when she was just a kid, poor thing. Why, do you know where she used to keep it? In a side compartment of her Martha Washington sewing cabinet. I didn't know Marsh had one."

"Well, I did," Tom replied. "I've seen it and I've shot it. He kept it in the garage, in an old enamel cuspidor on a shelf where he put odds and ends. We took it down the ravine once, behind the house, and knocked tin cans to pieces with it."

"Then maybe your fingerprints are on it, and you will be arrested!" Mildred cried.

"My fingerprints are on it, all right," Tom said. "Didn't I take the gat from him, and hand it to the cops?"

*Didn't I take the gat from 1111, and name it to cops?"

"Another thing that bothers me," Mildred said slowly. "That is—what will the Big Boss think of your being so chummy with Marsh and Cactus? And getting mixed up in a murder case?"

"I guess I better file a story," Tom observed.

Then their Negress came in, apologizing for being late, but Tom said he didn't want any breakfast. He went upstairs to his "study," took off his shirt and belt and shoes, and wrote:

"Marshall Rich, who was called by the government from Southwestern Agricultural to exert his genius in behalf of the drought-stricker farmers, staggered to his telephone last night to inform a friend that he had just slain his wife and her silegged paramour.

leged paramour.

"Mrs. Rich was Aileen Mullins, of Santa Teresa, Arizona, daughter and only child of the late Jack
Mullins, celebrated cowman.

Mullins, celebrated cowman.

"An element of mystery was injected in the case by discovery of a second revolver, recently discharged and surrendered by Rich as the murder weapon, but of a different caliber from that which had brought death to Mrs. Rich and Felix Starbuck. Iwenty-eight, Washington publicity man. The revolver which had dealt the fatal shots, found by the police near the bodies, was an ivory-handled six-shooter presented to the murdered woman by her rancher father."

And so on.

the mirdered woman by her rancher lather.

And so on.

It made all editions, and carried streamer headlines even in the late Sports Extra.

Tom felt a whole lot better after writing it. A sort of mental enema. He took a bath and flopped into bed

of mental enema. He took a bath and flopped into bed
Naturally when the boys got back to their offices that afternoon the rooms were already filled with other correspondents eager for the eye-witness angle. Ther were so many that the local reporters, out working for a living, didn't have a show.
Barriog the absence of liquor and evening clothes it looked like a pre-gridiron dinner party. You ught to get yourself invited to a Gridiron Club dinner some time. A fot of people have tried. That's where the cream of journalism meets the cream of politics over terrapin and other fancy victuals, and try to curdle each other.

each other.

Anyhow, there was the crowd and Homer and Tom were in for a lot of kidding and a lot more questioning. Skip that.

The boys shook loose along about dinner time. Not many of the correspondents did anything professional with the murders. Some of the columnists may have. The AP and the UP and the International News Service had carried the story out over the country, and anyhow, it wasn't politics.

When Homer got home he found his wife, Prentice, had been with Mildred that afternoon. They had both driven out to the Rich place, but it was under guard to keep off the curious. So, Homer learned, a family gel-together had been arranged at the Collins' guard to keep off the curious. So, Homer learned, a family get-together had been arranged at the Collins' for that evening,

"There will be only one or two others. Ka, any-how," Prentice said.

"But I'm so sick of telling the story," Homer grouched. "And I'd like to read the news-papers. And..."

And_____''

"I told Mildred
o'clock," Prentice sai

And—"
"I told Mildred we would be around at eight o'clock," Prentice said.
You know how it is. At seven minutes after eight Homer and Prentice were at the Collins' house, and. Tom had the highballs all ready, Oddly enough, actually only "one or two others" were there. Two to be exact, as all good newspapermen are.

(To be continued)

BALLENBERG-SIDDONS WEDDING

MRS. ROBERT SIDDONS

Miss Elizabeth Ballenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Ballenberg of Warsaw, became the bride of Mr. Robert Siddons, son of Professor and Mrs. A. W. Siddons of Harrow, Wednesday evening at six o'clock at the Anglican Church of St. Emmanuel. The Reverend Martin Parsons officiated in the presence of a officiated in the presence of brilliant assemblage of friends.

The church was decorated elaborately for the occasion. White lilies and peonies were used with a background of laurel and garlands of oak leaves.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played for the entrance of the bridal party and the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin for the recessional by the organist of the church Miss Beatrice Flynn.

The bride was attended by Miss Judith Poore Gilmor as maid of honour. The flower girls were Martha and Camilla

Mr. John Wharry served as best man. The ushers were Mr. R. E. Kimens and Mr. Hugh McFaddin.

The bride wore the conventional white satin fashioned with extreme symplicity, the skirt ending in a train. She carried an old-fashioned

The maid of honour wore a blue chiffon frock and carried pink roses. The flower girls were dressed in yellow organdy with blue sashes.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ballenberg entertained at a reception in their home. Mrs. Ballenberg wore a beige lace gown with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Siddons left later in the evening for England. After a short stay there they will take a motor trip through Scotland. On their return they will take up residence in The Hague, where Mr. Siddons is connected with the Schicht Uni-layer Company

NEWS IN BRIEF

The National Lawn-Tennis Championships of Poland were held last week on the courts of the Warsaw Lawn Tennis Club. Entries were comparatively few, and the departure of Wittman to play in Tallin, and the indis-position of Tłoczyński robbed the tournament of some excitement. Hebda regained the title he lost last year when he won from Tarlowski in the finals in four sets. The doubles title went to Tarlowski-Bratek, who defeated Hebda-Tłoczyński in four sets.

Heretofore, freightrouted through Gdynia destined for the Far East has cost more than if it had East has cost more than if it had been sent through Antwerp or Rotterdam due to the fact that the Far Eastern Conference of shipping lines refused to recognize Gdynia as a base port. Negotiations, extending over half a year, have finally been successful, and henceforth, Gdynia will be granted all the privileges now enjoyed by Antwerp and Rotterdam. The main advantage will be a lowering in freight rates from five to two shillings per ton.

AIR ROUTE

(Continued from page 3, col. 3)

are a rough crowd and might manhandle the owner for offering them such a jewel.

Sam is ready to accept somewhat less than $200, the pearl being cracked and not without flaws. This is due to hitting it with a 75-pound crowbar, which is rough handling for the stoutest stone. est stone.

est stone.

It seems the finesse of the operation was that while one man with a crowbar whanged one of numerous clam shells, as large as a man's head, another extracted the dried eye of a defunct fish lying on the beach and deftly slipped it in the cracked shell. The shell was handed to stone area of Service and Serv shell. The shell was handed to strong-armed Sam to pull apart and his sharp eyes discovered the pearl, greatly to the envy of his more careless playmates. While gold and diamonds, and even pearls or oil, which lure fortune hunters to the most desolate corners of the earth, have not been discovered on the Wake atoll, there is sufficient material here worth picking up as remematoli, there is sufficient material here worth picking up as remem-brance of the visit. Coral can be gathered by wading knee-deep in the water anywhere. Clusters grow in the lagoon-rosettes of all sizes, shapes and colours; little knobs no lar than the fist, and immense bu larger bushes that two men encircle with outstretched arms.

enerstee with outstretched arms. The atoll ring itself, built by those those tireless little creatures on the edges of a volcano cone extinct since the prelistoric era when the ocean submerged the land, is a solid, bleak rock of coral. On the ocean side of the atoll it falls off ledges and cliffs.

On this solid coral, both in the On this solid coral, both in the ocean and in the crater bed that is now the lagoon, grow other species of coral, as varied as the flowers in a well-kept garden. Some clusters have long spikes spreading into hundreds of branches, each tapering to a point. Other patterns are shaped like marine cauliflowers. Still others are egg-shaped. Their variations are as numerous as the strange fish, whose bright colours of red, blue, green, yellow, black and blue, green, yellow, black and brown flash through the clear waters above a white coral and sand background.

(Copyright by The Warsaw Weekly for Poland, and by the North American Newspaper Alliance elsewhere).

Jan matuszewsk.

DIPLOMATIQUE

The Brazilian Minister, M. José de Barros Pimentel, decorated President Moscicki with the Brazilian Order of the Southern

The New Bulgarian Minister Sawa Kirow is expected to arrive in Warsaw on June 30 to present his Letters Plenipotentiary to the President of the Republic.

The Esthonian Minister, M. Hans Markus, has left Warsaw on a mission for his government. M. Constantin Schmidt, Secretary to the Legation, is acting as Chargé d'Affaires.

The First Secretary of the French Embassy and Madame Arvengas gave a farewell tea on Saturday. They left Warsaw Thursday for Hamburg where M. Arvengas will take up his new post as Consul-General.

ANGLO-AMERICAN COLONY

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hamilton-Stokes gave a supper party Saturday in honour of Miss Elizabeth Ballenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Cole motored down from Riga to attend the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Ballen-berg and Mr. Robert Siddons on Wednesday.

Miss Betty Siddons arrived in Warsaw from London on Monday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Ballenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Ailshie gave a dinner on Sunday in honour of Miss Elizabeth Bal-

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Sztoleman gave a dinner on Monday in honour of Miss Elizabeth Bal-lenberg and Mr. Robert Siddons.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Caird enter-tained at tea on Sunday in honour of Miss Elizabeth Ballenberg.

Mr. A. E. Dalwood, President of the Polish-Australian Chamber of Commerce of Sydney, is at present visiting in Poland.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lewandow-ski entertained at tea on Monday in honour of Miss Elizabeth Ballenberg.

ANTIQUES "SZTUKA" Sienkiewicza 6 Tel. 609-65

ANTIQUES WORKS of ART

N. SAKIEL Mazowiecka 9 Tel. 511-53

CENTRALA TAPET

Warsaw, Przejazd 5 Tel. 11:08:35 NEWEST FIGURED WALLPAPERS FASHION NOTES

(Copyright by The Warsaw Weekly

Wera Engels, brunette beauty, wears a coolie cloth frock in turquise that does much to enhance her lovely colouring. Cut simply, this sports dress suggest the Chinese influence in the tiny, straight collar that fastens at the throat.

Otherwise it is the conventional practical wash dress that is invaluable for warm weather wear. The belt and the frogs that fasten the blouse of this frock fasten the blouse of this frock are made from hemp and wood-en beads, and Miss Engel's hat is of the same material as

Beach parties this year will feature the latest in bathing suits that the film colony knows. Every type of suit, from cellophane to lace, will have its place in the bathing beauty show. All of them, of course, conservatively using jersey wool as an underslip. It sounds all too albring to say that Madge Evans will grace a swimming pool in a suit of say that magge Evans will grace a swimming pool in a suit of apricot rubberized lace. But what you don't always hear is the fact that bathing suits of this type are inevitably lined with jersey of the same colour.

Dolores del Rio is wearing the most original summer tailored suit yet to be seen. Her blouse is of green suede, her hat of green material, and her suit of white beach cloth pin-striped in

Straw handbags — to match summery, wide brimmed straw hats — are the latest addition to one's ensemble for out-of doors occasions. They are made in various concentric designs, the straw having a special finish to fit it for this rather unusual fit it for this rather unusual purpose.

The handbags are flat and compact and are made in circle, half circle and quarter-circle shapes. They have dainty silk linings and slender fine leather handles to tone with the colour of the straw in which they are made.

Black and white designs are Black and white designs are attractive, and in one design of dark nigger brown straw over a deep Tuscan shade, the bag is the shape of a folded circle, the brown straw forming the base of the bag superimposed to show a two-inch band of Tuscan straw.

Broadtail or beaver are the trimmings forecast by Lucile Paray for autumn wear on simple tailormades or long coats. Long coats, unbelted, have a slim line from the waist with a mere hint of fullness near the hem. Collars of fur are draped or tied about the shoulders. Armboles are not exaggeratedly long and sleeves are mostly full above the elbow and cut in one with the front and back of the coat. Some sleeves fall full to a cuff at the wrist with no trimming of fur.

Warsaw Stock Exchange Quotations 1933 1934

	High	Low	High	Low	Last	May 29	June 19
BONDS		(i n	percei	ntage	of pai	-)
Stabilization 7's, 1927	61.75	47.25	79.75	54.50	68.25	63.00	65.63
Conversion 5's, 1924 .	53.50	41.00	68,50	52.50	65.00	66.25	66.00
8% Dollar Loan, 1920 4%% Dollar Mortgage Bonds(Warsaw Land	63.00	46.00	78.00	58.00	73.50	80.75	80.75
Credit Association) 5% Mortgage Bonds	52.00	84.75	51.00	31.00	48.50	-	49.00
Warsaw Credit Ass'n)	52.25	36.00	64.25	50.63	58.00	57.13	58.50
SHARES		(i n	zloty	s per	share	)
Bank of Poland	88.50	70.25	97.00	77.00	95,25	87.25	88.25
Haberbusch & Schiele	50.50	37.00	40.00	34.00	38.00	41.50
Lilpop, Rau & Loewen-	13.00	9.13	12.65	9.15	10.10	9.35	9,50
Starachowice	11.50	7.25	14.25	9.80	13.00

Swim Suits Beach Costumes Jantzen and the Best Polish Makes

Warsaw Coal Company 13.24 13.25 15.50 9.00 15.00

Only at "Tricot" Marszalkowska 129

FINEST LINGERIE AND HOSIERY

POLSKA SPÓŁKA POŃCZOSZNICZA

Zgoda 4

prop. JAN ŁAZEWICZ

tel. 527-09

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8		9	10	11	12	13	14
15									16			1
17		100							18				1
19				20				21				22
23			24		25		26				27
28				29		30				31
32					33		34		35
36				37		38						39	40	41
			42						43		44
45	46	47				48		49		50
51					52		, ,		53		54
55				56				57		58		59
60			61				62				63	-
64					1		65				1
66		-					67		1			7700

HORIZONTAL

- -Make ready
  -Plants of the banans family
  -A kinsman
  -Origin
  -A quaske
  -Droop
  -Japanese coin
  -Fasten
  -A ninect
  -An insect
  -Person indifferent to plessure or pain Supplicate
  —Person indifferent to pleasur pain
  —Unaspirated
  —Spirit lamps
  —Spirit lamps
  —Feathered songlers
  —To compute
  —A principle
  —Observe
  —Withdraws
  —To blemish
  —Austere
  —To urge
  —Pairs
  —To urge
  —Pairs
  —In a row
  —City in Switzerland
  —Earth
  —Be send
  —A river in Austria
  —Liquid measure (abbr)
  —Vessel on a sealing trip
  —Residence of a vicar
  —Power machine
  —Bailvens
  —Horses

Horses Neatness

- VERTICAL

  1—Flourishes
  2—Witty answer
  3—Refinement
  4—Face value
  4—Face value
  6—Ceremonies
  7—Occurrences
  8—Compass point (abbr.)
  9—A caper
  9—Stable
  1—Partool of food
  1—Somewhere near
  1—Textile material (pl.)
  1—Railroad car
  1—Asiatic beast of burden
  1—Vacations
  1—In proper
  1—A proper
  1—A

- -A broom
  -Born
  -Western State (abbr.)
  -Entertain
  -Assuage
  -Calculates the arithmetical mean
  -Uneasy
  -Stitch
  -A little fellow
  -The populage

- -A little fellow
  -The populace
  -The East
  -Second childhood
  -Sign of the Zodiac
  -Denudes
  -Clear
  -Curve
  -Branches

- 61—Falsehood 62—Liquid container 63—Sped

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

ESTABLISHING A TENACE

There is a situation in the play which all players should learn to recognize. It is not uncommon, yet very few players take advantage of it.

West, Dealer North-South vulnerable

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	10	Pass	1NT(1)
Pass	2 (2)	Pass	3 (3)
Pass	40(4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1-Even with a five-card biddable suit' the one-notrump response is pre-ferred on bands containing less than two honor-tricks. In the new Culbert-

- A TEMACE son system a suit response is forcing for one round, and must not be made without some strength or at least a six-card suit.

  2-A very strong bid; for it denotes willingness to plsy at three hearts, 3-Not a raise, but a preference bid.
  North having bid two suits, South shows the suit in which he is stronger, 4-North is strong enough to bid for game, even though South has shown and the suit of the suits of the suits of the suits hough-trick.

The Play

The Play

East opened a low spade; West's King fell to North's Ace. North next eashed the King of diamonds, then led a spade hoping for entry to dummy. But West ruffed.

West then made the play necessary to defeat the contract: he led the ten of clubs—not a low club. North played the Jack; but East won with the King and returned the Jack; but East won with the King and returned the over dummy's nine. West thus established a second trick in clubs, and it was impossible for North to enter dummy and disearch his loser on the Ace of diamonds.

Had West led simply his fourth-best club, as many players would have done, North would have played the five-spot. East could not have won over dummy's nine without playing his King, and West's Queen.

(Copyright by The Warsen Weebu.

(Copyright by The Warsaw Weeky in Poland and by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

(Continued from page 2)

country, but they do indicate a definite shortage of normal stocks.
The drought undoubtedly played an important rôle in the increase an important rôle in the increase of the import of food products into the United States. But I found on my travels through agricultural states and in the large cities that nobody was blaming the high price of meat upon the Weather Bureau.

The farmer feels that if he had not permitted the destruction of his nigs, this country would had not permitted the destruction of his pigs, this country would not be importing live pigs and fresh pork; that if he had worked his fields, he would be selling surplus production in the American market.

On the other hand, beet sugar farmers and wheat farmers speak favourably of the AAA and of curtailed and controlled production. In Utah, prosperity has come almost entirely from government checks and controls. In States where processing has favoured the farmer, he is pro-Roosevelt.

favoured the farmer, he is pro-Roosevelt.

But when the entire picture is considered—namely, the reduction of crops for existing markets, the curtailment of labor, the rise in prices and taxes, and the psychological dissatisfaction over the increased import of commod-ities which the United States normally exports—then it is pos-sible to generalize that the farm-er is more dissatisfied than he er is more dissatisfied than he er is more dissatisfied than he usually is.

usually is.

In a word, whereas the objective of the AAA was to help the farmer by curtailing production so that the differential between the price for manufactured goods and farm commodities might be equalized, actually it has reduced the cotton farmer to abject equalized, actually it has reduced the cotton farmer to abject impoverishment, it has increased the import of food products, it has helped to raise the price of manufactured goods, and it has thrown thousands out of work.

(Copyright by The Warsam Weeky in Voland and by The N. A. N. A.)

MISAPPREHENSION

The Ilustrowany Kurjer Codzienny of Kraków, one the most influential Polish dnillies, reprints from a Polish language daily in Cleveland a dispath to which the title "American Correspondent Writes Foolishness," has been given Writes Foolishness," has been given.

As near as can be ascertained, the Chicago Tribune published a message from Poland to which it gave the headline, "Poland Fears War with Lithuania."

The complaint of our illustrous contemporary is based upon its translation of the word "fear" which is takes to mean physical fear. We would suggest, however, that "fear" as used here does not reflect in any way whatsoever upon the courage of 'the Polish nation, but rather suggests that Poland is afraid of Lithuania is quite another thing, and no one can say that.

On Sunday, June 16 at 10:45 in the evening, eight hundred bonfires were kindled along the borders of Poland in memory of the late Marshal of Poland. This manifestation was organized by the Frontier Guards. The manifesto of the President of May 12 was read to the assembled companies, and this was followed by a silence of three minutes in memory of the Marshal.

Advertisements

First closs pension "Liljana" Józefów, Sosnowa 17, tel. Podmiejska 2 Józe-fów 8. Place te spend the weekend.—

Cinema Programme

Direct Dan Hausen

	First-Run Houses
Address and Performances	Films Currently Showing	Comment
Atlantic Chmielua 33 Perf. 6. 8. 10.	The Thin Man  Myrna Loy, William Powell  American Production.  First Week	From the Murder Mystery by Dashiell Hammett
Apollo Marszałkowska 106 Perf. 4. 6. 8. 10.	Lives of a Bengal Lancer Gary Cooper, Franchot Tone Paramount Picture Ninth Week	From the book by Francis Yeats-Brown Good
Capitol Marszałkowska 125 Perf. 4. 6. 8. 10.	Scampolo Dolly Haas, Paul Hörbiger Austrian Production First Week	Comedy
Casino Nowy Świat 50 Perf. 4.6.8.10.	Unfinished Symphony Hans Jaray, Marta Eggerth Austrian Production Ninth Week	Musical Good
Europa Nowy Świat 63 Perf. 4, 6, 8, 10.	Rumba George Raft, Carole Lombard American Production Second Week	Musical Average
Filharmonja  Jasna 5 Perf. 6. 8. 10. Closed on Fridays	The Bride of Frankenstein  Boris Karloff, Elsa Lanchester  American Production  Third Week	Horror Picture
Majestic Nowy Świat 43 Perf. 6. 8. 10.	Have a Heart Jean Parker, James Dunn American Production First Week	Comedy
Pan Nowy Świat 40 Perf. 4. 6. 8. 10.	Here is my Heart Bing Crosby, Kitty Carlisle American Production First Week	Comedy
Rialto Jasna 3 Perf. 6. 8. 10.	Upper World  Mary Astor, Ginger Rogers American Production Second Week
Stylowy Marszałkowska 112 Perf. 4. 6. 8. 10.	Kleine Mutti Franciska Gaal Austrian Production Eighth Week	Comedy Good
	Ich Will Nicht Wissen	TO THE REAL PROPERTY.

Classified

HINTS ON ENGLISH

There are some common errors There are some common errors made in English, in which the offenders are not necessarily confined to students of the language. Here follow some of them:

1. Neglect of agreement between subject and verb. e.g. We was here. The cost of the books were high.

2. Confusion of singular and plural. e. g. The news are bad.
3. The relative pronoun placed

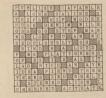

3. The relative pronoun placed too far away from its antecedent. e. g. The engine pulled the cars which began to puff.

4. Wrong choice of relative pronoun, e. g. That is the girl which I love. He is such as man

5. The use of the plural with pronouns which should take the singular. e. g. Everyone to their own taste.

Lack of agreement between 6. Lack of agreement between a pronoun and its antecedent. e. g. That is one of the best men that lives in town. This, of course, should be "that live in town," as the antecedent of that is not "one" but "men."

Answer to last week's puzzle

A

fr Gid

bu

to na tr ab

co ui

in ha th

w or la st ne ga

to or vi

ne de we fo

in the in he did st

po ar of 6,

for the year of th

7. The misuse of "who" and "whom." e. g. That is the man who I spoke to.

8. The use of "what" as a relative. e. g. The man what comes is my friend.

9. The use of an adjective for an adverb. e. g. The man thinks clear.

10. The wrong use of the comparative and the superlative. e. g. He was the eldest of the two. This should be, "He was the elder of the two."

11. The wrong use of first. e. g. He lost the three first things given him. This should be, "He lost the first three things given him."

given him. 12. The use of the accusative after the verb "to be." e. g. It

Below is the translation of last week's Polish passage.

The unyeifing of the tablet was preceded by a ceremony held in the courtyard of the Missens. Addresses were delivered by Prof. Kalinowski, director othe Physical Laboratory of the Museum of Industries and Agriculture, Prof. Dorabial, as of Lwöw, Prof. Wertenstein, the Chairman of the Museum and Prof. Ponikowski, Chairman of the Commemoration Committee.

Below is this week's Polish passage for translation.

passage for translation.
Gdański, 14, 6 (PA T). — Przybyły do
Gdańska przeydant Banku Rreszy, dr.
Schucht wygłonił daśi na zebranu kuprzemówienie na tema sytuacji walutowej w Wolnem Mieście.
Przemówienie dr. Schachta miało wyrażnie na celu uspokojenie ludności Gdańska cod przyszkości jego waluty.
Przydost bowiem stwienie jego waluty.
Przydost bowiem stwienie jest walutą bezweględnie stałą i zdrową i że nie grozi mu żadne dalsze załamanie.

Advertising Rates: 50 groszy per millimeter. Term rates on application. Classified advertising — 20 groszy per word.

The Warsaw Weekly is published every Friday by the Polsko-Amerykańska Spółka Akcyjna "SOUTHERN TRADE", Warszawa, Mokotowska 12.